MacEwan University's Mitchell Art Gallery hosts the ArtBus supporting downtown galleries

Edmonton - The Mitchell Art Gallery at MacEwan University is once again organizing and hosting ArtBus, a free, all-ages, one-day event that takes riders across downtown Edmonton to galleries and artist-run centres via ETS buses.

Art lovers are invited to hop on any designated Art Stop across the downtown to experience art, get creative with hand-on activities and shop local. Three chartered ETS ArtBuses will run in a continuous loop between nine participating galleries, making it easy for people to connect with art downtown free of charge.

In addition to the Mitchell Art Gallery, the ArtBus will also make stops at:

Alberta Council for the Ukrainian Arts

Alberta Craft Council

Art Gallery of Alberta

Edmonton Arts Council Shop

Harcourt House Artist Run Centre

kis'htoskâtonaw

SNAP Gallery

The buses will be marked and easily identified at ArtBuses. The first bus will leave MacEwan's Allard Hall at 12 p.m. Volunteers will be on the buses to hand out stickers that give participants free admission to the galleries and discounts at participating shops and restaurants.

ArtBus is generously supported by Scott and Kathy Watson and the Edmonton Arts Council. Edmonton Transit Service is also a partner with the Mitchell Art Gallery, providing the charter buses for this event.

Saturday, March 21
