The Queer Agenda* - MacEwan University celebrates Pride Week

Edmonton - There is a long list of fun and exciting events as the MacEwan Centre for Sexual and Gender Diversity hosts Pride Week, celebrating the diversity of 2SLGBTQ+ communities and allies. This week of education and celebration aims to create and support safe, welcoming and inclusive environments for everyone in the university community, and helps build bridges and connections to the broader Edmonton community.

Running from March 10 to 14, this year's theme is The Queer Agenda. Beyond the mundane, the Queer Agenda is a collective endeavour intended to foster a world where all people can be exactly who they are. The Queer Agenda includes community care and joy as an act of resistance and takes care to include all intersecting identities, striving for truly inclusive communities. The queer community and the institutions involved in Pride Week stand for a future rooted in equity and justice, imagining and celebrating our individual and collective futures in a complex world, free from homophobia, biphobia and transphobia.

Some highlights of the Pride Week events at MacEwan include:
