MacEwan University students speak for the Earth

Edmonton—The Office of Sustainability at MacEwan University is pleased to host the launch of Earth Common Journal, Volume 2, Who Will Speak for the Earth? Earth Common Journal is a student-driven project published by the MacEwan University Bachelor of Communications Studies program.

Earth Common Journal is an international, undergraduate peer reviewed academic journal that provides a forum where students share research on conservation, sustainability, and global warming. The evenings keynote speaker is Aleksandra Nasteska, co-founder of WE CANada, a youth movement encouraging Canadian leadership in sustainable development at the United Nations earth Summit 2012 in Rio de Janeiro and beyond.

“MacEwan University is excited to be moving forward in the next chapter of WE CANada's vision for our nation’s environmental future,” said Chantal Beaudoin, “MacEwan University's Head of Sustainability. “Our goal for this event is to inform and engage our community in dialogue about our environmental priorities. From the conversation an action piece will emerge and participants will have the option to send a post card addressed to Honourable Alison Redford, Premier of Alberta, suggesting top three priorities for Alberta's environmental policy platform”.

When: Thursday, September 27

Time: 4:00 p.m. – 6:30 p.m.

Where: Robbins Health Learning Centre (Main Floor) 109 street and 104 avenue
