‘Eclectic’ is revealed: Design Studies showcase their portfolios

Edmonton—MacEwan University Design Studies students are pleased to present ‘Eclectic,’ the 2015 Portfolio Show. The one night only Portfolio Show is themed ‘Eclectic’ and is a unique opportunity for the students to expose their work to industry leaders and the general public.

“Through their work, students will have the opportunity to showcase how well they’ve learned to use the tools of design to deliver a strong message with powerful impact, each in their own unique way,” said Dr. Carole Charette, Chair, Design Studies.

The 49 students of the 2015 graduating class will present their best work and display their multiple talents in photo, illustration, typography and web. There will be an opportunity to talk with them and review their portfolios.

Everyone who attends will also have a chance to purchase a copy of the Eclectic Year Book 2015, a catalog of a selection of the graduates work.

There are two viewings, one for industry, and one for the public.
